“ The whole Anderson Family sends condolences to Dell's family. We had the privilege of knowing her when she cared for my grandmother Janie Anderson back in the late 1970s. I was fortunate enough to be living with "Grandmother Andy" during that time and cherish the memories I have of their friendship and respect for each other.

I learned a lot from Dell...how to use Octagon soap to get out any stain, how to make her "chicken gravy", how to starch shirts the old fashioned way...she even tried to teach me how to make her scrumptious fruit cake, although I never learned to my great dismay.

My favorite story is when Dell and Grandmother Andy argued over how to make macaroni and cheese. Grandmother finally won by saying, "This is MY house and you're going to do it MY way!" to which Dell responded, "Alright! But it ain't gonna be any good!" I still chuckle when I tell that story which I do often. They were two strong women who loved and respected each other. Dell was a blessing for all of us. We share in your grief and sorrow but rejoice in knowing we'll all get a big hug from her some day!
